Philadelphia Judge, Who Is H self an Expert Autoist, Impo Sentence on Man Who Down and Killed Child.

Philadelphia, Pa. Aug. 12—With stinging comments upon the art of automobiling from a Judge who is himself an expert chauffeur. William H. Mesera, the man who caused the death of 5-year-old Eldon Sarver by running him down with a speeding touring car on the night of June 26, to-day was convicted of involuntary manishaughter and sentenced to serve eighteen months in the county prison and to pay a tine of time.

Meyers collapsed when he heard the verdict of the jury! He regained his composure at a word from his attorney, John R. K. Scott, and then prepared to listen to the sentence of the court.

Attorney Scott is a lover of horses and has no sympathy with automobiles, while Judge Andeltried, who presided over the trial, owns several automobiles and understands the trials and temptations of a chauffeur.

CAUSTIC WORDS FROM JUDGE
Yet the words of the Judge in sentenc-

CAUSTIC WORDS FROM JUDGE

Tet the words of the Judge in sentencing the chauffeur were caustic.

"The verdiet of the jury was a just one," said Judge Audenried. "Have you anything to say, Mr. Scott?"

"We are satisfied to accept the verdiet," said the attorney, "and I only can supplement the jury's decision with a recommendation to the mercy of the court. The jury asked that mercy be shown the man, and ro do I. He surely had no willful intent and was not once warned on the right of the accident that he was going too fast. And before that night his record had been perfectly clean."

"That no intentional crime was committed," began the Judge mildly, "is indicated by the verdiet which finds Meyers rullty of lavedmutary manistaughter. The greatest possible punishment that could be meted to the prisoner is the consciousness that must remain with him always that he has taken a human life.

that he has taken a human life,

"WARNING TO OTHERS."

"The fixing of punishment in this case is not to be based upon the intrinsic offense, but as a warning or admonition to those engaged in the same occupation," resumed the Judge. His tones had ceased to be soft, and gree sterner as he proceeded.

"My observation is that there are no people in this community who are so utterly disregardful of the rights and safety of their follow beings as those engaged in the management and running of automobiles. Careless and selfish people are to be found in all classes. There are many of them among the drivers of horses. But the proportion of criminally reckless persons among cheuffeurs is much greater. In my opinion, than that among horse drivers.

"CHAUFFEURS IMPUDENT."

"Chauffeurs are well paid. They wax fot and grow impudent until they become a menace to the community. It is for this reason that, while giving full consideration to the recommendation of the jury and the plea of Mr. Scott. I sentence Meyers to an imprisonment of eighteen months in the county prison and to pay a fine of $5.9."

The full nenalty is two years.
Judge Audenried said in his charge to the jury that the law would not tolerate the speeding of automobiles over the proscribed time limits, and indicated that an example would be made of all persons who were brought into court charged with having caused injury or death to human beings in running automobiles. Assistant District Attorney Chester N. Farr, who prosecuted the case, characterized Meyers as "a reckless daredevil, who went up the street with a racing spirit."
